RENWICK, Edward Sabini:

Mech. eng'r; b. Jan. 3, 1823, in old Columbia College, formerly Kings Coll., in N. Y. City, being one of the few persons born in that old building; s. James Renwick, (LL.D., prof. chemistry and natural philosophy), and Margaret Ann (Brevoort) Renwick; grad. Columbia Coll., in 1839; m. 1862, Alice Brevoort; three children. On leaving college engaged in iron manufacture, and in 1845 became sup't Wyoming Works, at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., where merchant iron, sheet iron, hoops, rods and nails were manufactured; in 1847 put up a blast furnace at same place with brother, H. B. Renwick; in 1849 went to Washington and associated himself with Peter H. Watson (subsequently ass't sec. of War under Pres. Lincoln) in the business of solicitor of patents and expert in patent causes. While thus engaged they jointly invented the original self-binding reaping machine, without which the present grain crops of the world could be reached; their invention was patented in 1851 and 1853, but was 20 years in the advance of age, and was ridiculed, although since come into enormous use; hence the inventors never were compensated for it. A complete breakdown in health compelled him to give up professional business for several years; but in 1854 removed to N. Y., and again resumed profession; has probably been engaged as expert in a greater number of patent causes than any other expert, as made inventions; among them that of encasing the tail-shafts of twin propellers in cylindrical casings extended from the hull of the vessel to the after bearing, described in his English patents of 1862 and 1868, but did not come into use until the accident to the City of Paris many years later; now used on all large twin propeller steamships. Amused himself with artificial incubation and made many improvements in incubators; also revolutionized the bringing up of chickens by the invention of the Brooder. His most notable achievement as an engineer was the repair of the Great Eastern steamship in 1862, plating over a fracture eighty-two feet long and ten feet broad on the turn at the bilge twenty-seven feet below water, while the vessel was swinging at anchor in the rapid tide of the East River. Author: Practical Invention. Address: 19 Park Place, N. Y. City.

Nicholas Longworth); m. 2d, 1886, Edith Kermit Carow; children: Theodore Jr., Kermit, Quentin, Ethel, Archie. Elected 1881 and reelected 1882 and 1883 mem. N. Y. Assembly; in session of 1883 (in which the Democrats had a majority) was a candidate for the speakership; and in session of 1884 was chm'n Com. on Cities, and of the special committee which investigated abuses in the conduct of the government of N. Y. City. In 1884 was delegate to N. Y. State Republican Convention, and later in same year delegate at large, and chm'n of N. Y. delegation to the Nat. Republican Convention at Chicago; supported Senator Edmunds for the presidential nomination, but when Blaine was nominated, entered actively into the campaign in his behalf. Bought a ranch in North Dakota and lived on it for two years studying the Far West and its people thoroughly and becoming an adept as ranchman and hunter. Returned to N. Y. City, 1886, and was made Republican nominee for mayor, but was defeated by Abram S. Hewitt; appt'd mem. U. S. Civil Service Comm'n, 1889, and served as its pres., but resigned that office in 1895 to accept the presidency of the Police Comm'n under the administration of Mayor Strong, which office held until April 6, 1897, when was appt'd by President McKinley, ass't sec. of the Navy. When war with Spain was declared he resigned his position in the Navy Dep't and with Dr. Leonard Wood, an army surgeon, organized the First Reg't U. S. Volunteer Cavalry, recruited from the ranches of the West and popularly known as the Rough Riders. Surgeon Wood, because of his superior tactical knowledge, becoming colonel and Mr. Roosevelt lieut.-col.; reg't went to the front, to Cuba, and participated in the fighting in front of Santiago de Cuba, and was promoted to colonelcy of the reg't for gallantry at Las Guasimas; at close of the war returned with reg't to Montauk Point, where was mustered out of service; shortly afterward was nominated for and Nov. 1898, was elected governor of New York; in 1900 was nominated for Vice-President of the United States by the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia, and elected, and entered on the duties of that office, Mar. 4, 1901; on the death of President McKinley, Sept. 14, 1901, was sworn in as President; in the National Convention, 1904, was nominated for President, and in the November election was elected by a plurality in the popular vote of 2,512,417 and a majority of 1,696,142, for the term beginning Mar. 4, 1904, and expiring March 4, 1906. His administration has been marked by the inauguration of great works of public improvement, notably the Panama Canal; by measures for the orderly government and advancement of the people of our insular possessions, by the prosecution of faithless officials, the curbing of law-breaking corporations, the making of laws for proper inspection of the packing and meat-dressing industries, the prevention of frauds and impurities in food products and other salutary measures inaugurated in response to the President's initiative. In foreign policy Mr. Roosevelt has taken the part of a peace-maker, and through his initiative Russia and Japan, by the treaty of Portsmouth were brought to the conclusion of an honorable peace, in recognition of which the B'd of Directors of the Nobel Institute of Stockholm conferred upon him, in 1906, the Nobel Peace Prize. Although for twenty-five years past almost continuously occupied with the public service he has earned distinction also in the profession of letters. Univ. 1904, Columbia, 1904; m. N. Y. City, Jan. 8, 1878, Clara, d. Salem H. Wales. Engaged in practice of law from 1867 in N. Y. City and has been identified with many of the most important litigations in N. Y. City; was leading counsel for the estate in the celebrated contest growing out of the will of the late A. T. Stewart, through the schemes of alleged Irish heirs; counsel in the Broadway surface railroad litigation, the Sugar Trust contest, the Aqueduct litigation; successfully defended Robert Ray Hamilton in the suit brought about through the machinations of the notorious Emma Mann, and in many other cases of equal prominence with these. Appt'd by President Arthur, 1883, U. S. Dist. Att'y of Southern Dist. of N. Y., and served until 1885, and during term, among other cases, convicted Joseph D. Fish of criminal complicity in connection with the celebrated Grant-Ward frauds; delegate-at-large to Constitutional Convention of State of N. Y., in which was chm'n Judiciary Com. and leader on the floor of the Republican majority in that Convention. A year after the close of the Spanish-Am. War., when an especially strong man was needed in the War Dep't to straighten out conditions resulting from the prematurely begun, but quickly won campaigns in two hemispheres and to meet the unprecedented demand which came with the sudden acquisition of our insular possessions, he was appointed, August 1, 1899, as Secretary of War, and as such placed an army of 70,000 men in the Philippines which quelled the formidable insurrection under Aguinaldo and the minor uprisings which followed, and also took up the burden of the Chinese Expedition to rescue our minister and his household during the Boxer uprising, his service in the War Dep't continuing under reappointment by President Roosevelt, until Feb. 1, 1904, when he resigned to return to the practice of law. On July 1, 1905, he was induced by President Roosevelt to return to the Cabinet as Secretary of State in succession of the late John Hay, in which position has dealt with many important questions bearing upon our relations in the Orient, the Russo-Japanese War and its termination, the situation in Cuba, etc., and in 1906 made a diplomatic tour of South America, which has done much to strengthen our relations with the Latin-American republics. Was mem. Alaskan Boundary Tribunal, which sat in London, Sept.-Oct., 1903, and settled the disputed questions of the boundary between Alaska and Canada. Stedman; in 16th year entered Yale, where he distinguished himself in Greek and English composition, and in 1851 received the prize for a poem on Westminster Abbey; was prevented from graduation on account of some breach of discipline, the same university, however, conferring on him, in 1871, degree of A.M., and subsequently that of LL.D.; has also received degree of L.H.D. from Columbia. At age of nineteen became editor Norwich Tribune, and two years later of the Winstead Herald; in 1856 went to New York, where contributed to Vanity Fair, Putnam's and Harper's Magazines, and to the N. Y. World and the Tribune; his success was not marked, however, until he attracted public attention by his poems of The Diamond Wedding, a satire; and How Old John Brown Took Harper's Ferry, the fame of which latter secured him a position on the regular staff of the Tribune. His poems were published in 1860 in a volume entitled, Poems, Lyrical and Idyllic. During first two years of the war was Washington corr. of the N. Y. World, but failing health compelled him to accept a less honourous position in the office of Attorney Geo. Bates, which he resigned in 1864 and returned to N. Y. He entered mercantile business, and became a member of the Stock Exchange in 1869, retaining his seat until 1900. During his business life, Mr. Stedman continued to produce literary work of a high grade, publishing at intervals Alice of Monmouth, an idyl of the late war, and other poems, and in 1873 a collective edition of his poetical works. More recently has devoted his time largely to literary criticism, producing articles on Tennyson, Theocritus, and the Victorian poets, which led directly to his critical volumes, Victorian poets, and Poets of America, and to his Victorian and American Anthologies. In 1888 took part in editing The Library of American Literature, and in 1899 gave at Johns Hopkins University a course of lectures on the Nature and Elements of Poetry, which has since been repeated in other institutions of learning, and published in book form. Was president New England Soc., 1902-03, and pres. of the National Inst. of Arts and Letters. V.-p. under Mr. Lowell of the American Copyright League, and succeeded him as its pres. The passage by Congress of the Copyright Law was assisted by his efforts. Has gained a position in the front ranks of balladists and literary critics. Clubs: Century (v.-p.) Railroads; b. N. Y. City, Jan., 1842; s. Edward Jenner and Jamima (Strikee) Swords; ed. in N. Y. City; m. 1st, N. Y. City, 1872, Julia J. Marvin; 2d Nov., 1890, Nellie Irving; children: Edward J., William V., Walter Marvin (deceased). Officer in U. S. Navy; volunteer service; made cruise around the world. While serving as eng'r, U. S. N., during bombardment of Fort Fisher, Dec. 24, 1864, the ship to which he was attached was struck with a 10-inch Columbia, considerably below the water-line; noticing that no effort was being made by the deck officers to plug the hole, he and another eng'r proposed to the comd'g officer that they would do it, and at their request the starboard battery was run over to the port side so as to list the ship and bring the hole as near as possible to the surface and to the boat's crew. Personally plugged the hole, although the plugs on board were made for the guns of Revolutionary times and were only 6 inches in diameter, therefore had to wrap a blanket around in order to fit the hole as he drove the plug in with a sledge; all this time the shots from the fort were striking all around the party, and the ship was rapidly sinking; one boiler had been perforated by the shot, but there was steam enough in the boiler to run a donkey engine, and keep the pumps at work until the ship was soon after relieved from the water, and went into action the next day. THE ONLY COMPLETE BALZAC

If you are considering the purchase of a set of Balzac it would be well to read what American and French experts say of the Barrie Edition

"BARRIE & SON'S is the edition par excellence of BALZAC."—RICHARD HENRY STODDARD.

"THE BARRIE EDITION will take its place at once as the standard edition of the great French novelist."—Boston Evening Transcript.

"Admirably printed and illustrated, BARRIE & SON'S edition is neither abridged nor expurgated. It is the only English version which contains all that is in the original."—M. W. HAZELTINE, in the New York Sun.

"There is only one English translation of BALZAC that is complete and unexpurgated, and that is published by GEORGE BARRIE & SON."—The Bookman, New York.

"The publication of a complete unabridged and unexpurgated English translation of BALZAC'S NOVELS is an undertaking which it remained for the MESSRS. BARRIE to perform, and they have accomplished the work so successfully that their fine edition will undoubtedly stand as the standard edition of BALZAC'S writings.

"The translation is an accurate, faithful rendering of the letter and spirit of the original. It is difficult to speak in terms of too high praise of the beautiful etchings, which really illustrate the text, the splendid paper, print and binding, which in simple elegance and good taste meet the demands of the most exacting book lover. Their edition is a genuine, honest piece of work, and a monumental undertaking admirably executed."—Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

"MM. GEORGE BARRIE & SONS, les grands éditeurs de Philadelphie, leur édition de l'œuvre de BALZAC est entièrement illustrée par des artistes français. Nos peintres, dessinateurs et graveurs ont exécuté ou reproduit plus de quatre cents compositions pour cette belle collection. Ces Américains font vraiment bien les choses."—Le Figaro, Paris.

"LA MAISON BARRIE ET FILS a pensé qu'il convenait, au seuil du XX. siècle, d'élever un monument durable au grand romancier du XIX^e. Elle lance aujourd'hui cette grande édition réclamée depuis si longtemps, non seulement par les balzaciens, mais aussi par tout le public, véritable édition de luxe, illustrée avec amour par les meilleurs artistes, et dont le prix, malgré tous les sacrifices nécessités par une aussi vaste entreprise, a été maintenu au prix ordinaire de leur édition en anglais. Seuls, les Américains avaient osé dépenser des centaines de mille francs pour éditer superbement BALZAC."—L'Illustration, Paris.
